

Call for Participants: Cleveland Crops Agriculture Training Program

The Cleveland Crops Agriculture Training Program is a five-week classroom and farm-based employment training program for adults with developmental disabilities. Participants are trained to grow, harvest, package and distribute produce using sustainable methods while gaining important and relevant work skills that will prepare them for competitive employment in the community.

Participants learn skills and knowledge related to:

- soil preparation
- weeding/pest control
- harvesting
- seed starting
- irrigation
- marketing
- planting
- composting and fertilizing
- cleaning and packaging

Participants who successfully complete the training program receive a certificate of competency. After the training program, placement in a competitive, community-based job is the expected outcome for each participant.

Qualifications:

- Willingness and ability to do physical labor in various weather conditions;
- Ability to work a 30-hour week;
- An interest and desire to grow and care for plants;
- Commitment to complete all training classes; and
- Desire to progress to a competitive level of employment

Interested individuals must complete an application and submit it to either:
